

KING OF GREECE IS ASSASSINATED

King George Meets Death at Hands of Demented Greek Degenerate

IS SHOT THROUGH HEART

Assassin Makes Sudden Attack Upon Greek Monarch on Street in Saloniki, Firing One Shot

MURDERER IS OF LOW TYPE

SALONIKI, MARCH 18.—King George of Greece was assassinated while walking in the streets of Saloniki this afternoon. The assassin was a Greek of low mental type who gave his name as Aleko Schinas. He shot the king through the heart.

The king was accompanied only by an aide de camp, Lieut. Col. Frangos. The assassin came suddenly at the king and fired one shot from a seven chamber revolver. The tragedy caused intense excitement. Schinas was seized immediately and overpowered.

The wounded king was lifted into a carriage and taken to the Paphlagon Hospital. He was still breathing, but died within half an hour.

Prince Nicholas, the king's third son and other officers hurried to the hospital. Arriving first, Prince Nicholas summoned the officers and speaking in a voice choked with sobs said:

"It is my deep grief to have to announce to you the death of our beloved king and invite you to swear fidelity to your new sovereign, King Constantine."

Crown Prince Constantine, who succeeds King George, is at present at Janina. He is expected to come here with all possible speed. The assassin of the king is a tall looking fellow about 40 years old. On being arrested he refused to explain his motive for the crime. He declared that his name was Aleko Schinas, and, in reply to an officer, who asked him whether he had pity for his country announced that he was against governments.

Schinas maintained a perfectly impassable demeanor, which was suggestive of his being irresponsible for his actions.

Precautions were at once taken throughout the city and perfect order is being maintained.

The king fell into the arms of his aide when shot. Two soldiers ran up, on hearing the firing, and helped to support him. He was placed in a carriage and efforts were made to stop the bleeding, but he breathed his last on the way to the hospital nearby.

When Prince Nicholas made the officers swear fealty to Constantine, they shouted "Long Live the King."

Prince Nicholas is the only member of the royal family in Saloniki. Mourning emblems are displayed everywhere. The Greek governor has issued a proclamation announcing that the oath of fealty to King Constantine has been taken.

Since his triumphal entry into Saloniki the king had been accustomed to take an afternoon walk to the famous White Tower or to the cavalry barracks in Lesser Karaburum. The king's confidence in the people was so great that he went about freely, accompanied only by a single eunuch.

The danger of this custom was apparent to members of his staff who frequently requested his majesty to permit the presence of civil guards. A few days ago four gendarmes were ordered to follow the king but their presence was considered so objectionable by his majesty that the number was reduced to two. These followed at a long distance.

The effect of the assassination in Saloniki was most impressive. Groups of grief stricken people gathered in the streets and conversed in muffled tones. The troops were recalled to barracks; shops and cafes were closed; the street cars suspended service; lights were extinguished and Saloniki tonight had a dead and deserted appearance. The church bells tolling the last call echoed along deserted streets.

Unexpected Tragedy.
London, March 18.—The official world at London and the general public were startled this evening by a terse message from Saloniki announcing the assassination of the King of Greece. Interest in the troubled Balkans has been waning of late days, but the news of this wholly unexpected tragedy caused an instant and immense sensation. It was not generally known that the King of Greece was still remaining at Saloniki as nothing had been heard of his movements for several days. Concern regarding the details of the assassination was intense but as the hours passed and no further news reached London it became evident that a rigid censorship was being maintained by the army administration. The strained relations between the Greek and Bulgarian contingents at Saloniki gave Greece the greatest fear that the assassination of King George might have been incident to a clash between the allies; but a message received at mid-night dispelled such apprehensions by identifying the assassin as a Greek degenerate. Another dispatch referred to him as demented.

Find Little Information.

The British foreign office Marlborough House, where the Queen Mother Alexandra, sister of the dead king, is residing and the Greek legation were besieged by reporters, but no one at these places had any information except the newspaper bulletins until nearly ten o'clock.

The king and queen of England are stopping at Windsor Castle and the first official confirmation of the tragedy came to the foreign office in a despatch from Prince Nicholas at Saloniki and was transmitted to Windsor and to Marlborough House and then given to the public.

This dispatch announced that the king had been shot and died in half an hour. Another telegram, reporting similarly was received from the Greek administration at Saloniki. Earlier in the evening the press message had been communicated to the king and the queen mother as a rumor. The greatest sympathy is felt for Queen Alexandra. King George of Greece was her favorite brother. She only recently suffered another, although less tragic blow, in the death of her brother, King Frederick of Denmark. The Princess Victoria broke the news to her, and, because of the uncertainty, she was able to hope that the report was not true. But it was soon confirmed by an official despatch. Queen Alexandra is said to be prostrated, and King George and Queen Mary will come from Windsor tomorrow to give what consolation they can.

Body May Be Taken to Athens.
It is expected that the body of the murdered king will be taken to Athens aboard a warship for burial. He went to Saloniki immediately after the occupation of that city and remained there in the capacity of commander-in-chief of the army.

King George of Greece was a frequent visitor to London, his last visit being on the occasion of King Edward's funeral when he met Col. Theodore Roosevelt and became exceedingly friendly with the ex-president whom he impressed as one of the most democratic characters among the European sovereigns assembled there.

He remained as a guest at Buckingham palace for several days and with his brother, King Frederick of Denmark, walked about the streets of London unattended and unrecognized. Several times they joined the crowds which gathered in front of the palace to cheer the new English king, their identity wholly unsuspected by the workmen with whom they rubbed elbows.

Made Many Friends.
Of all the crown heads of Europe King George of Greece and his Danish brother, King Frederick, who was overtaken by a fatal illness while strolling in the streets of Hamburg alone, were among the most unostentatious. He had many friends among the diplomats of the various nations and some of his warmest friendships were with untitled persons.

At a meeting of Moslems and Turkish sympathizers he announced the announcement of the assassination was greeted with cries of "Shame!" although there were some cheers.

The audience arose as the token of respect for the king. The Earl of Selbourne, presiding at a meeting of royal colonel institute announced the death of the king and said that all would wish to express their deep sympathy for the Queen Mother Alexandra in her bitter loss.

The Greek legation had received no official word of the death of the king up to a late hour tonight but two members of the peace delegation remaining in London and many other Greeks called to express their sympathy. The lord mayor of London sent a message to the Greek minister saying:

"The citizens of London sympathize with the Greek royal family and the Greek nation in their bereavement and express their horror at the crime."

The lord mayor also telegraphed condolences to the King and Queen Mother Alexandra while the lord mayor of Windsor called at the castle to offer condolences.

New King is Popular.
Crown Prince Constantine comes to the throne of Greece at the very height of his popularity, which he has won on the field of battle in Macedonia, and which the capture of Janina raised to the highest pitch.

His repeated triumphs during the present war have aroused the wildest enthusiasm and only a few days ago it was announced that an equestrian statue would be erected in his honor in the capital.

Crown Prince Constantine recently took over the command of the company besieging Janina and bidding his time and by a military ruse, captured the fortress.

The new queen, who was princess Sophie, sister of Emperor William of Germany, has become deeply attached to the country of her adoption and is extremely popular in Greece.

Was in Dangerous Position.
The long stay of the Greek king at Saloniki where he had been since November 12, was made with the object of showing Greece's title to permanent possession of the city. When the war with Turkey broke out each of the allies made for the territory in which its interests lay. Greeks, Bulgars and Serbs alike coveted this prosperous port. The Greek army won the race to the city and unaided received the submission of the Turkish garrison. The Bulgarians, however, who were not far behind, sent in a portion of their army, and since then there has been considerable friction, and even fighting.

The Greeks, nevertheless, established an administration and the king hurriedly left Athens for Saloniki. He played host to King Ferdinand of Bulgaria and the crown prince of Serbia on their visits to the city.

The king's visit to the city was not without its dangers. He was shot by a Greek degenerate. Another dispatch referred to him as demented.

AGREE UPON PLAN OF TARIFF ACTION

Senate Committee Outlines Policy of Close Cooperation With House

TO MEET UNDERWOOD

Conference With Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee Will be Asked for Soon

WORK FOR ACCEPTABLE BILLS

WASHINGTON, MARCH 18.—Democratic members of the new senate finance committee today agreed upon a plan of tariff action that will have important bearing upon the downward revision plans of President Wilson and the house tariff leaders.

In a conference participated in by all demands on the committee except Senators Stone and James, a policy of close co-operation with the house was outlined through which it is hoped that house bills can be made acceptable to the senate and pushed through that body with but little amendment and without the delay of committee hearings.

Senate leaders stated tonight that there is general harmony among the Democrats of that body upon the tariff program. In order to carry out the policy of co-operation with the house it is understood that the senate probably will have to accept much greater reductions in tariff rates than that body approved at the last session. Members of the finance committee today expressed the belief however, that this willingness on the part of the senate would cause the house to exercise caution against making extreme cuts with the idea that they would be modified in the senate.

Will Hold Conferences.
Conferences with Chairman Underwood of the house ways and means committee will be asked for during the next week or two, and the Democratic membership of the senate will be canvassed thoroughly before the extra session convenes.

The members of the committee expressed confidence that the senate itself would follow the lead of the committee in all tariff matters. The plan will be to take all questions into caucus, and it is believed that the caucus will support the committee. The present Democratic strength in the senate is 50 to 44 Republicans and Progressives and it is counted that even in case of filling of two Illinois vacancies by the election of Republicans, and the possible defection of some Democrats on certain schedules, there still would be enough votes to put through any bill agreed on by caucus with the controlling vote held by the Democratic vice-president, Mr. Marshall.

Sensor Simmons, the new chairman of the finance committee presided over the meeting today. He made no formal statement of his position but expressed a willingness to fall in with the house plans of revision. He was appointed chairman of a sub-committee to confer with the Democratic members of the ways and means committee of the house who are now rapidly completing the tariff bills.

The finance committee practically decided to have no senate tariff hearings, because of the extensive hearings conducted by the house committee and the debate that occurred during the last congress. Republican senators have notified the Democrats that they will insist on debating the tariff bills fully in the senate and that an early adjournment need not be expected. The ex-tent of the Republican opposition to the tariff revision bills has not been developed.

Fight For Reduction.
A general fight to cut down federal expenditures and bring them within the estimated revenues of the government is to be made in the special session of congress as soon as the tariff bills have been disposed of by the house. President Wilson's letter to Senator Tillman, made public today in which he declared himself in favor of a carefully considered and wisely planned budget, lent new strength to the plan now well under way in congress, to bring the country's enormous expenditures under some central control.

While President Wilson's budget ideas have not been outlined to members of congress it is not expected that the budget system advocated by President Taft and prepared by the economy commission will again be urged as the basis of the Democratic appropriation system. This scheme has many bitter opponents, including the leaders of the great committees which now handle appropriations and it is expected that efforts in congress will be directed along different lines. The economy committee appointed by the Democrats of the house on March 5th will not meet until after the house has disposed of tariff bills in the extra session. Efforts will then be made to devise a plan for handling the estimates and appropriations that come before the regular session in December. A sharp division exists between Chairman Fitzgerald of the appropriations committee who favors giving all ap-

MANY ARRESTS MADE IN "ARSON TRUST" CASE

ASSISTANT STATES' ATTORNEY SUES WARRANTS FOR 30 MEN

Merchants, Fire Insurance Adjusters and Alleged "Fire Bugs" Are Involved—More Warrants Will Be Issued Within Next Few Days.

Chicago, March 18.—Wholesale arrests of alleged members of the "arson trust" to day followed the issuance of a hundred and eight warrants for thirty men. The warrants which were caused to be issued by Assistant States' Attorney Frank Johnson, involved merchants, fire insurance adjusters and alleged "fire bugs."

Most prominent among those arrested was Joseph Clark, a public adjuster, who was held in bonds of $420,000 on sixteen warrants. He previously had been arrested on charges of attempted bribery, arson and burning to defraud, but was at liberty on bonds of $65,000.

Immediately after Clark's arrest to day his Attorney John E. W. Wayman applied to circuit Judge Neill for a writ of habeas corpus. The case was set for hearing tomorrow at noon.

Benjamin Fink, a "firebug" was named in several warrants charging arson, burning to defraud and conspiracy to defraud. Israel Schaffer, alias Jacob Schaffer, alleged to be another "firebug" was named in thirteen complaints.

The merchants for whom warrants were issued are Augustino Moici, Filippo Morici, Louis Bees, Samuel Adelman, Isaac Weinstein, A. Solowitz, Louis Asher, Samuel Litman, Antonio Moici, Max Convitzi, W. A. Harris, Morris Nudelman, D. D. Drosdowitz, J. Labow, Hyman Kohn, Solomon Kohn, D. I. Felsenhal, F. A. Melnick, and L. B. Melnick.

All of the remaining warrants were issued for local men, most of whom were charged with setting fire to other persons' property with conspiracy to defraud.

It was said tonight that more warrants would be issued within the next few days. They now are being prepared by the state's attorney's office. The warrants were made returnable before Judge Scully tomorrow morning.

REPORT OF STEEL COMPANY.

New York, March 18.—The annual report of the United States steel corporation covering operations for 1912, issued today shows total earnings of $117,926,402, this being "exclusive of charges for interest on bonds and mortgages of subsidiary companies." The net income for 1912 is placed at $77,075,217, a decrease of $1,250,222 from 1911.

The average number of employees in the service of the corporation for 1912 was 22,125 against 19,628 in 1911. Total annual salaries and wages in 1912 aggregated $189,351,602, an increase of $27,932,571 over 1911.

APPROVE SUBWAY CONTRACTS.

New York, March 18.—The board of estimate by a vote of 13 to 3 today approved the contracts for the dual system of subways. The contracts were at once transmitted to the public service commission. Chairman McCall of that body announced they would be executed tomorrow with the Interborough Rapid Transit company and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company. Such action by the commission will bring to a close the city's long fight for increased subway facilities. The cost of the dual system will be slightly more than $226,000,000 of which the city is committed to pay about $163,000,000.

proportions bills to that committee with authority to act as a sub-committee, and Representative Shirley of Kentucky, who has proposed a special budget committee of the house to comprise the chairman and leading members of a number of important committees. Advocates of various budget plans intend to confer fully with President Wilson before attempting to agree on any system of general control over expenditures.

In Shape For Submission.

The tariff revision bill is now virtually in shape for submission to the Democratic caucus of the house though still subject to a smoothing-out process the Democratic house committee of ways and means today voted to make raw wool dutiable at 20 per cent ad valorem with substantial reductions in the present rates on manufacturers of wool, much along the lines of the previous Democratic wool measures of the last congress. This victory of the protectionists over the free raw wool advocates was the culmination of a lively contest in committee. The present law imposes a duty of eleven cents a pound on raw wool, which the house bill of the last congress would have changed to an ad valorem of 20 per cent a reduction figured to represent approximately a cut from 7 to 20 per cent ad valorem.

In the committee today meats were put on the free lists as they were in the house bill of the last congress and cattle were left on the dutiable list.

A sentiment of a single tariff bill, instead of a schedule by schedule revision developed today among Democratic leaders at the capitol. If this idea is adopted by the coming Democratic caucus of the house the pending tariff revision bids fair to go down into history as the Underwood tariff of 1913.

LEWIS DROPS SIX VOTES ON ELEVENTH

Eight Democrats Withdraw From the Colonel's Support

SPEECH HELPS LITTLE

Secretary of State's Oratory Before Joint Assembly Was With Out Apparent Effect

OUTLOOK STILL UNCHANGED

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., MARCH 18.—While the guest of the Illinois general assembly today Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan saw Colonel J. Hamilton Lewis' vote drop from 91, the high water mark reached last Thursday to 85 votes on the eleventh joint ballot for the long term senatorship.

If Secretary Bryan's visit to Springfield was for the purpose of aiding Colonel Lewis' candidacy the desired effect was not immediately apparent. Secretary Bryan's speech which lasted an hour and a half, the joint assembly proceeded to take the eleventh ballot on the long term senatorship. Eight Democrats who on last Thursday voted for Colonel Lewis withdrew their support from the Democratic candidate. This loss was partially made up by two Progressive votes, leaving a net loss of six votes.

Eight Change Vote.
The eight Democrats who voted for Colonel Lewis last Thursday and withdrew their support today were:

Senators Broderick and German. Representatives Ashton, Garsche, Griffin, Hilton, McCarty and Pitlock. Senator Broderick voted for John A. King, Democrat of Chicago and Senator Gorman voted for Charles Boeschenstein, Democratic caucus nominee for the short term senatorship. This was the first vote cast for the Democratic national committee man from Illinois for the long term place.

The members of the lower house who left Colonel Lewis on the ballot today voted as follows:

Ashton, present and not voting. Garsche, for Judge John B. Payne.

Griffin, present and not voting. R. Hilton, for William L. O'Connell, treasurer of Cook county. McCarty, present and not voting. Pitlock, for Boeschenstein.

Gets Two Progressive Votes.

Representative Lloyd and Taylor were the two Progressive members who voted for Lewis. It was the first time any of the Progressives voted for the Democratic senatorial aspirant for the long term. Salte, another Progressive for the first time cast his ballot for Sherman.

Jayne and R. E. Sherman, Progressives also voted for Sherman on the eleventh long term ballot but have cast their ballots for the Republican primary nominee on former ballots.

With four Republicans absent the votes of three Progressives kept the Sherman vote up to within one of the full Republican strength in the general assembly. The absent Republicans were Senators Andrus, Chamberlain and Curtis and Representative McNichols.

In withdrawing his further support from Colonel Lewis' candidacy, Senator Gorman explaining his vote, charged that had the friends of Lewis voted for Boeschenstein, as the latter's friends have been voting for Lewis, the solution of the deadlock would have been nearer at hand. He expressed the opinion "that had the Democrats stood together in this legislature that we would have elected two Democratic senators before today."

When Senator Waage's name was reached on the short term ballot he retailed by refusing to longer vote for Mr. Boeschenstein and charged that Senator Gorman's reason for his vote was a subterfuge for the purpose of endangering Colonel Lewis' election.

Eleventh Joint Ballot.

The eleventh joint ballot on the long term United States senatorship resulted in "no choice," and was as follows:

Candidate.	House	Senate	Total.
Sherman, R.	52	22	74
Lewis, D.	64	21	85
Berlyn, S.	4	0	4
Funk, P.	19	1	20
J. B. Payne, D. .	1	0	1
W. O'Connell, D.	1	0	1
Boeschenstein, D.	1	1	2
J. A. King, D. .	3	0	4
R. Robbins, P. .	1	0	1
Present and not voting	2	1	3
Absent	4	4	8
Totals	152	51	203

Leaders on the tenth ballot for the short term were:

Candidate.	House	Senate	Total.
Boeschenstein, D.	48	10	58
Sherman, R.	19	5	24
Funk, P.	37	8	45
McDonald	4	0	4
Vrooman	9	0	9
Rodenberg	9	1	10

The remaining votes were scattered among twenty other persons. Secretary Bryan's Address. Secretary Bryan addressing the joint assembly dwelt at considerable length on fulfillment of platform pledges and carrying out instructions of voters. At the outset Mr. Bryan declared he came with no secret message from the executive. The president represents the idea of publicity in politics, not the idea of secrecy. He added:

"I have nothing to say to you in confidence as individuals that I cannot say to you in such a way that you need not only hear but that the newspaper may report."

"I am not here to tell you what you ought to do," he went on. "I decline to tell you even if I am asked, for two reasons. In the first place the responsibility is not upon me, it is upon you. In the second place, your knowledge must be more complete than mine. One from the outside must rely upon those who communicate to him, and if their communication for any reason, is incomplete or inaccurate, he then is not well informed."

Mr. Bryan again stated that in what he might say he did not speak for the president and not even for himself, but asked the legislators to listen to reasons he had to give and then to decide whether those reasons would justify them "in doing what I would do if I were in your place understanding the situation as I do."

He then declared it to be his belief that it was the duty of the representative to represent his constituents, and that the platform is a binding pledge.

Platform is Binding.
"If a platform is not binding upon those who stand upon it is a delusion and snare," he said. "If a platform can be ignored, it ought to be abolished. A man who can gain office on a platform and then without subjecting himself to a just criticism ignore it, is like a man who obtains money under false pretenses. If a platform is not needed, it ought to be adopted. If a platform is needed that the people may know for what the candidate stands then he is not at liberty to ignore it after election."

He believed that the binding force of a platform is applicable to individuals as well as to principles. He ventured to apply this principle to the recent senatorial contest. The Democrats and the Republican parties each had a candidate for senator. The Progressives had no obligation, and therefore were not obligated to an individual as are the Democrats and Republicans. The Republican running as a candidate for the legislature on the same ticket with Mr. Sherman, who did not during the campaign declare he would not vote for Sherman as a member of the legislature, has no moral right to come out after the election and dissent from the declaration of his party. Otherwise he misrepresents his party. If he cannot support the party's choice he ought to return his commission to the people and run again on a different platform or let them select some one who can give expression to their will. Mr. Bryan applied the same principle to the Democrats. Mr. Bryan spoke of the near approach of the adoption of a constitutional amendment for the election of senators by popular vote, the Illinois legislature being one of those that ratified that amendment.

"Is it improper to suggest," he continued, "that if you refuse now to construe that amendment which you have endorsed and which will be a part of the constitution if you refuse to consider it now binding upon you, you simply make use of an obsolete system rather than the system which you favored and towards which our country is marching."

He wanted to know if anyone doubted if the election of senators took place last fall that the Democratic candidates for both long and short terms would have been elected. He said if it would "violate any Republican's conscience to help to do now what he knows would have been done had the people of the state had a chance to do it."

Responsible to People.
He declared the Democrats in this legislature are responsible to the people of the state and of the nation for the manner in which they settle this controversy.

Mr. Bryan hoped that Illinois, the state that has not always set an example of purity in politics, will go so far as to act that no one can doubt the good faith of every vote cast in this senatorial contest."

Mr. Bryan speaking of corporations asked the legislators to remember the difference between the corporation and the individual.

"Sometimes I hear a Democrat invoke a maxim of Jefferson, 'legislate as little as possible.' I have heard that maxim invoked when a request was made for regulating legislation. I want to remind that if you are going to apply that maxim you must go back to the time before these great corporations were created. You cannot create a corporation and then resort to the maxim that would lead you not to regulate after it is created. Remember the difference between the 'God made man and the corporate man.' There are several differences that are very marked. Here are a few. Man was made by the Creator. The corporation was created by man. Man has a higher origin than the corporation. God created man for a divine purpose. Man created the corporation to make money. A difference in the purpose of the creation, when God made man he put a limit to his existence and man does not know when the time will expire, and therefore he is under restraint that the corporation is not. Not only that but God breathed into a man a soul and warned him that in the next world he would be held accountable for the deeds done in the flesh while the corporation recognizes that if they escape punishment here it need not worry about the hereafter."

"Then there is a difference also

WILL NOT REQUEST CONTINUANCE OF LOAN

President Announces His Decision to Decline to Make Request

IS DESIRED BY CHINA

Negotiations Will be Discontinued by Bankers for $125,000,000 Loan Desired by China

THE PRESIDENT'S STATEMENT

WASHINGTON, MARCH 18.—President Wilson tonight, in a statement approved by his cabinet after two hours of discussion announced that his administration had declined to request the group of American bankers to continue their negotiations for participation in $125,000,000 loan desired by the Chinese government.

The reason given for the refusal is that the administration did not approve the conditions of the loan or the implications of responsibility on its own part which it was plainly told would be involved in the request. The statement declares that the conditions of the loan seem "to touch very nearly the administrative powers of China itself."

It also says: "The responsibility on its part which would be implied in requesting the bankers to undertake the loan might conceivably go the length in some unhappy contingency of forcible interference in the financial, and even the political affairs of that great Oriental state, just now awakening to a consciousness of its power and of its obligations to its people."

The statement continues: "The government of the United States is not only willing, but earnestly desirous of aiding the great Chinese people in every way that is consistent with their untrammeled development, its own immortal principles. The awakening of the people of China to a consciousness of their possibilities under free government is the most significant if not the most momentous event of our generation. With this movement and aspiration the American people are in profound sympathy. They certainly wish to participate and participate generously in opening the Chinese and to the use of the world, the almost untouched and perhaps, unexplored resources of China."

"The government of the United States is earnestly desirous of promoting the most extended and intimate relationships between this country and the Chinese republic. The present administration will urge and support the legislative measures necessary to give American merchants, manufacturers, contractors and engineers, the banking and other financial questions which are at a serious advantage as compared with their industrial and commercial rivals. This is its duty. This is the main material interest of its citizens in the development of the Chinese government. Our interests are those of open door—a door of friendship and mutual advantage. This is the only door we care to enter."

Many Applications Received.
Many applications have been received by President Wilson and Secretary McAdoo for the post of controller of the currency which became vacant April 25th, when the five year term of Lawrence O. Murray expires. The administration, it is said, will give careful thought to the appointment because of the prospective currency reform. The president is expected to seek a man in close sympathy with his ideas on monetary legislation. At the head of the National banking system, the controller of the currency may be of material assistance in drafting new currency laws.

Among those mentioned for the place are R. C. Kellar, Chicago; Don Stevens, St. Louis; Cato Sells, Texas and F. E. Marshall, Missouri.

Will Adhere to Policy.
While the president's pronouncement explained the attitude of the United States toward the Chinese loan it was authoritatively stated tonight that the same policy would apply throughout the Wilson administration to parallel situations in Central America and elsewhere in which the United States was concerned.

The policy of protecting through the influence of the government loan enterprises of American banking firms abroad was a part of what was often referred to as "dollar diplomacy" during the Taft administration. During the last administration Secretary Knox urged the passage of two loan conventions seeking to rehabilitate the finances of the Nicaragua and Honduras respectively.

The United States was to have had a voice in the selection of inspectors of customs through which medium the interests of the American firms were to be protected. The banking firms were to submit for the approval of the president of the United States and the Central American governments in question a list of inspectors of customs. These loan conventions

"CHAINS OF AN OATH"

The intense dramatic quality of the acting and story makes it an overpowering presentation. It thrills, magnetizes and captivates with an irresistible and irrepressible grasp.

A stirring story full of exciting action and dramatic situations stands forth clean and clear as a cameo, and furnishes an entertainment as keenly enjoyable as the most finished dramatic production on the legitimate stage.

A Romance of International Interest

This dramatic production portrays a Russian romance that shows the application of a customary oath imposed upon a young girl to marry a man of her father's choosing, regardless of her own wishes in the matter. It arouses a most intense feeling in the observer as we realize the nature of the oath and its injustice. While in the main it is intensely exciting, it ends in the realization of our best wishes for the heroine.

Earl Williams and Edith Story play leading parts. A great attraction one you should not miss.

STATE TROOPS CLOSING IN AGAINST GEN. OJEDA

Troops Have Hemmed in Federal Garrison in Naco and Ojeda Admits He Must Fight Against Great Odds and Cut His Way Out.

Naco, Ariz., March 18.—Surrounded by nearly 2,000 state troops who are rapidly closing in against Naco, Sonora, General Ojeda today admitted his predicament. Intent on preventing a recurrence of the federal victory of last Saturday Col. Juan Cabral is taking time and pains to hem in the small federal garrison here, leaving an only exit over the international border to the north where the troops of the ninth and fifth United States cavalry await the expected border battle.

"I am hemmed in and some way must cut my way out," admitted General Ojeda. "Despite my former victory, I feel humiliated and determined to fight to the last ditch. I have 400 trained soldiers behind me, having driven disloyal ones from the barracks. I'm prepared to give treble my number a warm reception."

It practically is assured that the next battle will take place at Naco opposite here and preparations are under way to protect non-combatants on the Arizona side.

Carrancistas Beaten Off.
Laredo, Texas, March 18.—Carrancistas who were beaten off by the federal garrison at Nuevo Laredo yesterday fired on an automobile party which included American Consul Alenzo B. Garret on the outskirts of Nuevo Laredo late today. The occupants of the machine escaped unhurt. The volley brought the rebels from the hills into action and they fired a number of shots but did not leave their places of concealment.

Government reinforcements are on the way to Nuevo Laredo and upon their arrival a decisive engagement is expected.

MANUFACTURER CANNOT DICTATE RETAIL PRICE.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 18.—Neither the manufacturer nor the wholesaler can dictate the price at which a retail merchant may sell an article of merchandise, according to a decision handed down by Judge Willard in the United States circuit court here late today. The case that of the Ingersoll Watch company against Henry McColl, a St. Paul druggist, who was charged by the watch company with retailing a watch made to sell for $1 at $3c. The Ingersoll company claimed the dealer was under contract not to dispose of the stock at a price lower than that fixed by the manufacturer. McColl claimed he bought his goods from a jobber and hence was under no obligations to the manufacturers.

In his decision Judge Willard said this contract is not maintained for the protection of a patent but a protection of the trademark, that it is unreasonable, beyond the power of the plaintiff to impose upon the defendant and void as to him.

CLEVELAND BIRTH PLACE A MEMORIAL.

Caldwell, N. J., March 18.—The home of Grover Cleveland's birth, a frame house that for 118 years has served as a manse, was dedicated today as a permanent memorial to the former president. In exchange for check for $11,810 the First Presbyterian church placed a deed of the property in the hands of Thomas A. Buckner, representing the Grover Cleveland birthplace Memorial association. The old brass key to the front door was handed to Richard Cleveland, son of Grover Cleveland. Miss Esther Cleveland, carrying a bouquet of roses, was the first to enter the house when her brother unlocked the door. She walked into the room where her father was born and placed the flowers on a table. Accompanying her was her mother, now Mrs. Thomas J. Preston.

LIPTON PREPARING ANOTHER CHALLENGE.

New York, March 18.—New York Yacht club members heard tonight that Sir Thomas Lipton had in preparation a letter embodying suggestions with reference to still another challenge for the America cup and would probably dispatch the missive within a day or two to the Royal Ulster Yacht club to be forwarded to the local club if the Irish Yachting organization approved. No details were given as to the substance of Sir Thomas' reputed letter, but the belief was expressed that challenge, if one were forthcoming, would not impose conditions such as caused the rejection of the last two challenges he has submitted, the supposition being that the British Baron would this time conform with the stipulations in the deed of gift.

ORDERED TO SWEEP ONE BLOCK OF STREET.

Chicago, March 18.—Jaes Frieler of this city was today sentenced by Municipal Judge Sabath to sweep the street for one block in front of his home daily until he had secured other regular employment. Frieler was brought into court by complaint of his wife that he refused to support her. Frieler went home, but instead of securing a broom took down his son's copy of the constitution of the United States from which he copied the paragraph guaranteeing citizens against "unusual" punishments. He sent the copy by mail to Judge Sabath's court and disappeared.

Judge Sabath, when he received the note from Frieler, ordered Frieler arrested on sight and sent to the city lock pile in the house of correction to beguile his time for two months in making road material.

BIG MONEY IN PURSES.

Kalamazoo, Mich., March 18.—Twenty six thousand dollars in early closing purses were announced today for the sixth renewal of Kalamazoo's Grand Circuit races, August 4 to 9 inclusive. The two feature events on the card are Paper Mills purse valued at $12,000, for 2:10 trotters and the Burdick Hotel purse valued at $6,000 for 2:12 pacers.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

A private dance will be given this evening in Degen's hall, under the auspices of the Harold Johnson orchestra.

Mrs. C. M. Coons entertained the members of the Ladies Aid society of the Antioch church and their friends at her home Tuesday, being assisted in serving by her daughter, Miss Daisy Coons, Mrs. William Cleary and Mrs. Andrew Harris. An elegant collation was served at the noon hour to the thirty guests present, a goodly number considering the bad condition of the roads. Following the dinner a business session was held. The society will hold a meeting each month.

Mr. and Mrs. James Nunes entertained about twenty couples Allen avenue, the occasion being their tenth wedding anniversary. The evening was spent with music and dancing, until a late hour when delicious refreshments were served and the occasion was one of great pleasure.

Members of Class 1 of the domestic science department of the state school for the deaf, entertained a number of the teachers at dinner Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock at the school. An excellent menu was prepared and the occasion proved a most delightful one.

Mrs. W. H. Self entertained the members of the Monday club at their open meeting Tuesday afternoon. A large number of members and guests was present and the afternoon was delightfully spent in playing "Five Hundred." During the hours refreshments were served.

The dance given Tuesday night in Castle hall by members of the D. O. K. K. proved a most pleasurable event. About 40 couples were present and music was furnished by Randall's orchestra. Refreshments were served. The committee in charge was composed of Harry Oltmeyer, chairman, Gilbert Masters, James Green, Ernest Stout, William Erney, Henry Heine, Albert Knollenberg and Jewel Scott.

The regular meeting of the Rev. James Caldwell Chapter D. A. R. was held Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Thomas Worthington. The paper of the afternoon was by Mrs. James Elliott on "Scotch-Irish in America and Their Influence." The paper was splendidly prepared and full of food for thought. Miss Jensen delightfully entertained the guests with three violin numbers with Miss Carrie Dunlap as accompanist.

A masquerade party was given Tuesday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clemens of South East street. The guests included mostly young people from Brooklyn M. E. church and a merry evening was spent.

JACKSONVILLE
IN FASTER COMPANYNEW ATHLETIC LEAGUE MAY BE FORMED.

Local School in Line to Join Federation of Prominent High Schools of This Section—Getting Ready For W. I. H. S. L. Meet—Lloyd Reynolds Named Baseball Captain.

If the plans work out which the Jacksonville high school has in mind the institution will be in an athletic federation, which will include some of the larger high schools of this section of the state. While J. H. S. in both football basketball and track work has met, from time to time, larger schools, yet there is a sentiment that the institution should be more intimately associated with schools of its size. The idea is one that has been advanced by a number of high schools of Central Illinois and has been constantly growing in favor.

Principal Gore Favors Plan.

W. A. Gore, the new principal, is heartily in favor of the new federation and believes that it will go a long way toward bringing the local schools up to a higher degree of efficiency in athletic work. As it is now, the school competes with so many high schools of less size, and, while, occasionally one of the schools puts in the field some splendid athletes, yet the competition is never strong enough to make the J. H. S. men do the very best work they can. Springfield and Decatur, have thought favorable of some kind of a new organization, to develop stronger athletes and other schools to be considered are Quincy, Lincoln, Peoria with perhaps Taylorville. It is planned to have not more than eight schools. Principal Gore who will attend the state teachers meeting, to be held in Springfield soon, expects to talk over the plan with the heads of the various high schools, who will assemble there at that time.

Lloyd Reynolds Manager.

At a meeting of the athletic board of control Tuesday at the high school, Lloyd Reynolds was named as business manager. A schedule of ten games will be arranged and negotiations are already under way with Springfield, Peoria, Pittsfield and Beardstown. Suits for the players will be furnished by Myers Bros. A captain will be chosen after the team is organized.

Preparations For Meet.

Principal Gore has already started preparations for the western Illinois high school league meet, which will be held here May 2. Considerable work is necessary in order that the meet can be pulled off successfully. Mr. Gore expects to have a meeting in the near future in Jacksonville, at which time the principals of the various towns which comprise the league will be invited to attend. Not much fear anticipated in local circles about Beardstown stealing the league meet from Jacksonville. It would be difficult for most any town to handle the large crowd and the track at Illinois college is so amply provided for running off the various events. Jacksonville also contributes a large crowd, which helps the financial end of the proposition and the city's location is also another advantage in holding the meet here.

Extemporaneous Speaking.

Since it has been announced that there would be a state contest in extemporaneous speaking at Champaign next May, when all the high schools meet there, considerable interest has been aroused at J. H. S. Several candidates have appeared to compete for the honors. This contest will be carried on the same as that of choosing a representative in the oratory department. First the local school will hold a contest to pick a winner. This candidate will compete in a district meet and the winner of the district will represent that section of the state in the big meet at Champaign. There seems to be a lack of interest at the high school and it has been several years since an exceptional talent along this line has been discovered and brought forth. It is the plan to give more attention to this work and an effort will be made to also be represented this year in the district oratorical meet. The girls are also working on their declamations in preparatory to the W. I. H. S. L. meet in May.

THE ART OF CORRECT DRESS

Solving the Pattern Problem.

Article No. 2 in a series of timely talks on "The Art of Correct Dress."

Choosing the style by which to make a new dress has probably caused the women of America more worry and headaches than any other one thing in connection with her wardrobe. While each season brings out certain tendencies which are to be adopted by the well dressed woman, there are so many modifications by the different modistes, choosing is made most difficult. And then the question arises, "Can my dress be made to look like the picture?"

If you use Pictorial Review Patterns our answer is "Yes, your dress will be made to look just like the picture." There is a cutting guide accompanying each pattern which produces absolute accuracy in design.

The worst jolt the combined pattern concerns ever sustained was when the Pictorial Review company began making patterns. No other pattern had ever qualified with the American women. Pictorial Patterns did.

If you are not already acquainted with the smartness of Pictorial Review styles, a visit to our pattern department will be a marvelous revelation to you

MEN OF BAPTIST CHURCH
ORGANIZE SOCIAL UNION

Chose Officers and Hear Excellent Address by H. H. Bancroft.

At a meeting in the parlors of the church Tuesday evening, the men of the First Baptist church perfected an organization which they termed: "The Men's Social Union," heard an excellent address given by H. H. Bancroft, and partook of a delicious lunch after the evening program.

Mr. Bancroft talked on what such an organization means in civic affairs and emphasized the fact that on environment rests the building of character, and that the responsibility rests on the men to construct environment conducive to proper character building. The address was heard with much interest by the men and they showed their appreciation by heartily applauding the speaker. A male quartet composed of Messrs. Springgate, Kirby, Guyette and Beckham furnished music for the evening and following the program an excellent lunch was served by the men.

Some years ago the men of the Baptist church had an organization similar to the one organized last night, but for some reason, interest in the work waned and the organization disbanded. A few weeks ago some of the men of the church started to work up interest in the movement to form an organization among the men of the congregation and the excellent meeting of Tuesday evening was the result. A list of the officers elected follows:

President—L. B. Turner.
Vice-President—A. B. Williamson.
Secretary—John Schofield.
Treasurer—J. K. Long.

ETHEL ROOSEVELT TO WED DOCTOR.

New York, March 18.—The wedding of Miss Ethel Roosevelt, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, to Dr. Richard Derby, will take place in the Episcopal church in Oyster Bay in April and will be followed by a breakfast for a large company, several hundred in number at Sagamore Hill, it was announced tonight. While the list of her attendants has not been completed by Miss Roosevelt, it was learned that one of them will be Miss Cornelia Landon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Landon. Roger A. Derby, Dr. Derby's brother, will be best man.

The bridal couple will sail for Europe the day after the wedding.

WILL INVESTIGATE CAUSE OF DEATH

Chicago, March 18.—A coroner's inquest will be held tomorrow to determine the cause of the death of Mrs. Pauline Marie Green Jones, sister of David Green, a wealthy Chicago manufacturer. Her body was found in a hotel room here today.

Near the body was a bottle containing a small portion of morphine. Friends of Mrs. Jones say Mrs. Jones used morphine as a heart stimulant and that heart trouble was probably the cause of her death.

Mrs. Jones' brother said tonight that a suit pending in court was a friendly one and was to have been settled shortly.

PRESIDENT WILSON WORKS UNDER UNUSUAL STRAIN

Washington, March 18.—President Wilson worked under an unusual strain today, though physically somewhat indisposed. He received a number of callers on a variety of political errands, sat for more than two hours with his cabinet, ate a hasty luncheon, shook hands with 650 visitors in the eastern room, mostly school girls in the record time of 12 minutes and devoted a part of the afternoon to the consideration of his statement on the Chinese loan.

city. He realized that his presence there was not without peril for he was suspected by malcontents—Turks who had lost one of their most cherished cities, and Servians and Bulgarians who envied the Greeks their possession of the place.

The king during his reign and particularly in the latter years passed through many dangers, but always went about either alone or attended by one or two aides. When he was struck down arrangements were being completed for his jubilee and it seemed that this celebration would occur in a period of national triumph.

Ruled Half Century.

King George was in his 68th year and had ruled fifty years. He was a brother of Queen Mother Alexandra of England, and a son of the late king of Denmark. He was chosen king of the Hellenes in 1863 in succession of Otto I.

A previous attempt to assassinate him was made in 1898 but was frustrated. King George was married in October, 1867, to Princess Olga, eldest daughter of the Grand Duke Constantine of Russia, a brother of the late Emperor Alexander II.

Describes Shooting.

London, March 19.—A Saloniki despatch to the Times graphically describes the assassination. It says: "The king was shot while returning with his quarry from a walk to the White Tower. He was in a happy and contented mood and as he strolled along talked of the war, of the success of the Greeks' arms, of the capture of Janina and Saloniki and of this fitting climax of his fifty years' reign."

"Tomorrow," said the king, "when I pay my formal visit to the dreadnaught Goeben, the German battleship which is to honor the Greek king here in Saloniki—that fills me with happiness and contentment."

"These proved to be the monarch's last words, for at that moment a shot rang out from behind Col. Francouds. The king's aide sprang around and seized the hand of the assassin which was already poised for a second shot.

Covering his royal master with his body, he seized the assassin by the throat and held him fast until passing soldiers ran to his assistance.

"But the first shot had found its lodgment. King George had already sunk to the earth. He was lifted into a carriage and with head resting on his arm, continued to breathe for a short time. But before the hospital was reached life was extinct.

"The bullet which was fired at a distance of two paces, entered the back below the shoulder blade. Its point of exit was below the stomach. There was a severe hemorrhage. The jeweled cross which the king always wore was smothered with blood. The assassin is a Greek of feeble intellect. He says he was driven to desperation by sickness and want. The crime therefore appears to be without a motive."

Was Popular in Denmark.

Copenhagen, March 18.—The deepest sorrow is felt here over the death of King George of Greece, who was very popular throughout Denmark. For the past fifty years he had been accustomed to spend a six or eight weeks holiday in Copenhagen, living like an ordinary citizen and taking interest in everything that concerned the life of his native country.

When the extra editions of the newspapers spread the news of the assassination all theatres and music halls closed their performances and the people left silently. The Royal family learned of the assassination through the press despatches. They were deeply moved, particularly King George's brother, Prince Valdemar, with whom he had always maintained the closest companionship when here.

King Christian received an official message from Athens about midnight. Members of the royal family remained up through the night in order to obtain details from the newspaper despatches.

Most of King George's wealth was in Denmark, his property valued at $20,000,000. He also had many houses in banks in Paris, Vienna and London, as the stability of the Greek throne was not firm enough at times to encourage him in keeping his wealth in Greece.

The king was friendly toward journalists and Danish newspapermen found him easy to interview. He spoke freely at times of European secrets.

The Danish court will assume mourning for a long period. Prince Valdemar and some of the younger princes and perhaps King Christian will attend the funeral. King George was educated in the Danish navy and then navy will adopt mourning and send a delegation of officers to the funeral.

Well Known in Rome.

Rome, March 18.—News of the assassination of King George of Greece has horrified the people of Rome, who remember the affability and kindness of the Greek king during his frequent visits here.

King Victor Emmanuel and the Italian foreign minister Marquis Di San Giuliano, have telephoned their deepest condolences to Athens.

Pope Plus learned of the tragedy late this evening and was greatly grieved. He said that the distressing event had caused him still keener sorrow, happening as it did on the eve of his name day.

Chicago, March 18.—Edgar T. Davis, chief factory inspector of Illinois to day in an address before the laundrymen's association of Illinois urged the appointment of an industrial commission by the governor to gather data regarding the wage conditions throughout the state, these figures he said, would form the basis of a minimum wage law. He expressed himself as doubtful of the truth of the assertion that low wages are mainly responsible for "white slavery."

MAN MORTALLY WOUNDS WIFE AND THEN COMMITS SUICIDE

Tragedy Enacted in Presence of His Two Children and Sister-in-Law in Lonely Colorado Ranch House.

Denver, Colo., March 18.—E. H. Reed of Belvidere, Ill., living with his wife and sister-in-law on a lonely ranch at Turkey Creek, about 30 miles from this city, shot and mortally wounded his wife and committed suicide today in the presence of his two children and his wife's sister.

Calling seven physicians over the telephone from the ranch house, the sister-in-law was compelled to attend both victims alone for the snow blocked roads were impassable.

The Reeds came to Colorado four months ago and rented a ranch. Reed was about 30 years old and industrious but could not afford to pay the rent. The owner of the ranch evicted the family. They traveled across country until they came to the ranch house where the tragedy occurred, which was vacant, and took possession. Recently Reed secured funds, showing a money order for $100 to the neighbors.

Reed and his wife went to Foxton Monday where they spent the night, returning on foot to Foxton this afternoon.

John Meecham, a rancher, driving a wagon over the road to Foxton, overtook the couple and drove them to the Reed ranch.

Meecham declared that both Reed and his wife were drinking whiskey while riding with him. On the way home Reed exchanged revolvers with Meecham.

Meecham had gone but a short distance from the Reed home when he heard the revolver shots and returned to find Reed dead and Mrs. Reed fatally wounded.

J. O. Roach the postmaster at Foxton, declared tonight that the Reeds seemed to be in the best of humor while at the postoffice Monday and joked about how they intended to spend the $100 which they had just received.

Henze and Schafer, manufacturers of the New Wrinkle cigar for Ehnie Brothers, have not moved their factory from West Morgan to North Church street, as stated in a previous issue of the Journal. However, the factory probably will be moved to North Church about April 1st.

PATIENTS SHOW MARKED IMPROVEMENT.

New York, March 18.—Marked improvement in the patients inoculated with his anti-tuberculosis vaccine about ten days ago was noted by Dr. Friedrich F. Friedmann when he examined them today, according to Dr. Friedmann and his assistants tonight. Sixteen of the seventeen persons inoculated appeared for the examination. The tubercular joints treated were examined and the measurements compared with those made before the treatment, and tests were applied in the other cases.

Dr. Friedmann today took occasion to deny that he had treated patients for gain. "Large sums of money have been offered to me," he declared, "but I have not accepted any money for treatment. I came here to cure tuberculosis and not for money."

HEIR TO LARGE ESTATE.

Chicago, March 18.—Miss Marjorie Burns Love, the divorced wife of Sidney Love, a former Chicago broker, who, a few years ago lost a fortune, is the principal heir to the estate of her mother, Miss Frances B. Burns, who's will was filed in the probate court. The estate is valued at $632,000. Mrs. Love now resides in New York.

BANQUET GIVEN BURKE.

Fargo, N. D., March 18.—A farewell banquet attended by many North Dakota Democrats was tonight given in honor of former Governor Burke, who is on his way to Washington to assume his duties as treasurer of the United States.

A legislative committee has agreed to report favorably a bill permitting no more than two doctors' of one school of medicine on the state board of health, which is composed of five members. And there would be war and rumors of war.

The strongest argument in favor of the proposed change of date for holding the primary elections, is that later nominations make shorter and less expensive campaigns. It is a long fight from April to the November elections, after campaigning from January till April for a nomination.

President Wilson has postponed appointments until after the meeting of the special session in April. Governor Dunne declines to announce appointments until after the settlement of the senatorial controversy. Are they endeavoring to force Democrats to be good by starvation?

Even in Spain the "Liberals" won a sweeping victory in recent elections. Their ideas of liberal laws may not conform to our conceptions, but Spain has been considered one of the slowest of countries in that regard, and even the smallest step in the direction of liberalism means almost a revolution.

The council of Women's clubs in Kansas City, Kas., are endeavoring to counteract the high cost of living by offering liberal prizes to the women who bake the best loaves of bread, the best cakes, make the best pies and broil the best steaks. And the question of keeping the cost down as well as the quality up, will be a determining factor in the distribution of the awards. Economic efficiency in the home kitchen will narrow the ever-widening divergence in the income and outgoing figures.

Illinois is now in second place as an agricultural state, according to reports of the agricultural department, Texas taking first. In 1912 Illinois produced farm crops valued at $289,000,000, while Texas steps to the front with farm products valued at $407,000,000. Texas has an area of 265,780 square miles, while Illinois has an area of 56,650 square miles, the Texas area being nearly five times as great as that of Illinois. It should also be borne in mind that Illinois is now directing much of its energy and capital to manufacturing, while Texas is doing little in that direction as compared with this state. Texas is a good and great state, an empire in extent of territory and thousands of its citizens are Illinois men who went to Texas years ago to make their fortune and have made themselves prosperous if not wealthy.

Here is a bit of ancient history in this state anent the election of United States senator that will be recalled with interest. In 1875 Elisha M. Haynes was speaker. There were 102 Republicans and 102 Democrats, causing a deadlock, because no candidate could get a majority of all the members voting. John A. Logan would receive the total Republican strength—102. The Democrats would not vote, thus preventing an election. On the night before the election Judge Lambert Tree received 101 Democratic votes. Dr. J. H. Shaw, a Democrat, died. W. H. Weaver, Republican, was elected his successor from the Petersburg district. This gave the Republicans 103 votes and Logan was elected. Mr. Weaver is still living and loves to tell of the "gum shoe" campaign that resulted in his election—a Republican in a Democratic district, and the election of General Logan.

Springfield papers are urging the enlargement of the municipal electric light plant there, for the purpose of marketing its surplus, after lighting the streets, to the general public, to authorize commercial lighting by the municipal plant. The Springfield Journal says: "With facilities for producing more light than is required for the city use, the municipality can sell light and bring to a test the question of its right to do so. If it makes the effort, it will be up to the opponents of the municipal plant to go into court with the case. To prevent the city from acting, it will be necessary for them to get an injunction, and the State Journal does not believe they will be able to do so." Pending in the legislature are bills which authorize municipalities to enter the commercial lighting field, and the action of the general assembly is awaited with interest.

NEW LIGHTING PLANT.

The city commissioners, through Member Joseph Brennan, have given to our citizens a fair statement of what they propose doing with that $50,000 bond issue, if it meets the approval of the voters of the city. They propose making this one of the best lighted cities of the state. The business portion will get its full share. Every street leading therefrom will be looked after. They are playing no favorites.

It is simply a case of necessity. The present plant is fit only for the scrap heap, for the most part. It has had its day, served its time, and been worn out. The advancement of twenty years in electric lighting, in all matters pertaining to the use of electricity, has been marvelous. What seemed entirely adequate twenty years ago, is overshadowed by the developments of the years.

As the tastes and needs of the average family have advanced from the old base-burner, that was the height of comfort a few years ago, to the furnace, or hot water or steam for heating purposes, from the days of kerosene and coal oil to gas or electricity for illuminating purposes, from wood to coal, gasoline or gas in your kitchen, so must the lines of progress expand the needs of the city.

Oil lamps were succeeded by gas. Then came electricity. Many will remember the towers that were erected in many parts of the city. It was supposed that was the last step in the lighting of the city, but in a few years they were abandoned. When the arches were erected over the main streets leading from the square they were hailed as most beautiful—a long step in advance in street lighting.

They were but steps, however, and each year has seen us moving forward—seeking something better, seeking to improve on the old methods, to keep step with the best things of the day. The boulevard lights for the streets are now maintained at private expense in some parts of the city, and for a time, at least, seem to be the most approved method.

All of this desire for the best, and it is proper, has led the commissioners to approve a plan that promises us the latest and most approved system of lighting. A change is absolutely and unquestionably needed. It will cost but a few thousand dollars more to build well and have some little reserve power while we are at it. The commissioners have shown by Mr. Brennan's statement what they purpose, and where the money will be placed.

We must do something. Our present plant is worn out, and may, even with the most efficient management, fail us entirely at any time. Is it not better to build well, and for another twenty years? Is it not better to have the city well lighted than to force our citizens to carry lanterns, as some of them do now, when on our streets after midnight?

The vote will, to a certain extent, be one of approval or disapproval of our commissioners, because they have asked the people to vote on this bill, which, after what they believe thorough investigation, they have recommended.

THE QUESTION OF ROADS.

The house committee on roads is arranging for a much needed conference over the good roads question. Almost three quarters of a million dollars derived from automobile licenses, to be used in the construction of roads, is idle, in the hands of the state treasurer, because no provision has been made for its use. The plan is to get together representatives of the different organizations in the state that have shown an interest in the road question, and have all go over the measure that has been offered. An effort will be made to reach substantial agreement on common ground.

In this conference will be the roads committee of the house; representatives of the Illinois State Highway Commissioners' association; the Illinois Road Improvement association; the Bankers' association; possibly representatives of some women's clubs; and there will be others.

Doubtless this conference will result in some amendments to the Tice bill as now drawn. It appears that township highway commissioners all over the state are making a violent protest against having their number reduced from three to one to a township. In the conference they will be invited to present their case fully, and possibly they will be able to convince the assembly they should remain three in a township.

A change will be made in the manner of electing the county superintendent of highways, usually called the county engineer. County authorities want to have more say in selecting this official than the Tice measure allows them.

It has been suggested that as many as please first take an examination to determine whether or not they are qualified to be road engineers; then let the supervisors select anybody who is on the list, their action to be final. This suggestion seems to meet the approval of boards of supervisors, so far as they are heard from; and something of the kind will be done.

There seems to be a considerable demand from some quarters that at the head of the state road department there be three superintendents in place of one. It is urged this will give representation to the northern, central and southern parts of the state.

The point will be considered at length in the conference meeting. It is thought by some that it has been proved a mistake to have three men in place of one at the head of the state road department. It is mentioned in this connection that New York had three men for several years but that the plan has been changed in that state and that from the first of the coming April there will be but one man at the head. New York has tried the three head plan and doesn't like it.

Members of the legislature are learning that in the main features, in the principles, the Tice bill apparently has the approval of a decided majority of the people of the state. Practically all the criticism directed against the measure is aimed at details; opposition to the general plan and purpose of the bill is not considered alarming in extent.

There is some opposition to the measure as a whole, to the plan of the thing. This is found to come from people who wish to leave the road question in Illinois stay right where it now is, who don't want any improvement in the roads beyond what they are now getting.

But the number of such people is not as great as was at first suspected. At the start they managed to make more noise than their numbers justified. Among people generally, and this applies to farmers as well as city folks, there is the feeling that the time has come when systematic road work will have to be undertaken in Illinois.

This being settled, the only remaining question broadly considered, is as to how the work is to be paid for. There is general recognition of the fact that if we are to have road improvement the Tice bill is very fair to the farmers of the state in the amount of burden it places directly on them. It is generally remarked that farmers could not ask for a more favorable distribution of the cost than they are given in this measure.

At first there was a little dread that the people living in cities in the state might protest against the measure, and all because of the share of the expense burden it places on them. But not a yelp has been heard from the city folks. They, of course, realize that good roads are a help to the cities as well as to the farms; that anyhow they go along with civilization, and the people of Illinois have reached the point where they must have them.

KING GEORGE I. OF GREECE.

Few European rulers of modern times have had a more interesting and eventful career than George I., king of the Hellenes, who was assassinated yesterday. He was born December 24, 1845, as the second son of Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Glücksburg, who became king of Denmark in 1863, and Princess Louise, daughter of King Carl XV. of Sweden and Norway. In baptism the young prince received the name Christian William Ferdinand Adolphus George and he was simple Prince William, without prospect of fortune when he entered the naval service of Denmark as midshipman.

The young prince had made one or two cruises and was on the point of starting on another, when, in October, 1862, a revolution broke out at Patras and Vanizla which, two days later reached Athens. King Otto, of the Bavarian house, who had occupied the throne of Greece for thirty years, lost his throne in three days. He calmly retired to Bohemia, where he died five years later, apparently without regretting the loss of his throne.

The European powers were puzzled how to replace Otto. The crown of the Hellenes was first offered to Prince Alfred of England, second son of Queen Victoria, but the English government declined the offer. It was then offered to Duke Ernest of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, who also declined it. Then it was that at the suggestion of M. de Chaudordy, minister of foreign affairs of the French government, proposed to the other powers to offer the throne of Greece to Prince William, then in his teens. Russia and England approved of the choice and the other powers followed suit.

The young prince was elected king of the Hellenes by the national assembly at Athens, March 18, 1862, and accepted the throne, through his father acting as his guardian, June 4, 1862. He was declared of age by decree of the national assembly, June 27, 1863, and landed in Greece on November 2, of the same year, greeted with enthusiasm by the population.

The first few years of his reign were comparatively peaceful and his marriage on October 27, 1867, to Olga Constantinowna, eldest daughter of Grand Duke Constantine of Russia, brother of the late Emperor Alexander III., greatly strengthened his position and added to the popularity of the young ruler. But the king's popularity soon became undermined by the unfortunate internal quarrels of the political parties of Greece and the boundless corruption of the officials, who maintained a spoils system that led to frequent disturbances and popular outbreaks.

Greece became involved in financial difficulties and King George was powerless to enforce the financial reforms which he advocated and urged to his parliament. Only with great difficulty did the king succeed in preventing Greece from becoming involved in war with Turkey during the troubles on the Balkan peninsula in 1876 and in 1886, after the revolution at Philippopolis and the Servo-Bulgarian war only the firm attitude of England prevented the Delianis cabinet from precipitating Greece into a war with the Porte.

Once more, in 1897, trouble arose and the Delianis cabinet forced the king to go to war against Turkey, although he knew that Greece was not prepared for war and was certain of defeat. The war was short and would have been disastrous for Greece had not the other European powers come to the rescue and put a stop to further hostilities. Not from any consideration for the Greek nation, but out of friendship for the king and his family, did the powers intervene, forcing Turkey to accept terms of peace which were more favorable for Greece than for the victorious Turks.

This seemed to bring the Greeks to their senses and make them realize how much they owed to their king. George I., immediately before the war was the most unpopular and almost despised man in Greece, so disliked, in fact, that even an attempt was made to shoot him and his daughter, Marie, while they were driving, became a popular hero and he and his family were dolized by the easily swayed people. In their enthusiasm for the royal family the people even forgave the king that he had accumulated a large fortune by successful industrial enterprises and stock speculations in Paris and Brussels.

The king's eldest son, Crown Prince Constantine, was married at Athens on October 20, 1889, to Princess Sophia of Prussia, a sister of Emperor William, and his second son, Prince George, appointed high commissioner in Crete after the war, married Princess Marie Bonaparte in 1907. The other children of the king also became connected by marriage with the reigning houses of Russia and Great Britain.

CHATS WITH GREAT MEN OF THE CIVIL WAR

By Mrs. Gen. Pickett.

Copyright, 1913, by The Press Publishing Co.
(The New York Evening World.)

GEN. GEORGE B. MCLELLAN

"Must I have a flag of truce, or will the long time friendship between your husband and myself serve as one?" asked Gen. McClellan, when my soldier presented him to me in our rooms at the old New York hotel the year after Lee's surrender.

"A flag of truce would not have been necessary for you, general, even in the midst of hostilities," I replied.

"Thank you. I appreciate the kindness of that response, for I can trace the echo to its source. Speaking of a flag of truce, you know, the first flag of truce used in our war was sent from the south to the Army of the Potomac and came before Gen. Andrew Porter, who didn't know what on earth to do with it. There was great excitement and consternation. Porter was afraid to accept it, afraid to refuse it and afraid to ignore it. Finally, after consultation, he referred it to the authorities at Washington. It was just after the first great battle. A dignified squad of confederates marched down to the main lines bearing aloft the white flag.

"Was the dignified body with the olive branch compelled to wait until Washington responded?"

"Certainly; but they did not have to wait long. Signal code or wire brings messages quickly."

"Of course Gen. Porter was authorized to receive the flag of truce." "Yes, the authorities were obliged to, for foreign nations had recognized the confederate government as a belligerent power and the exchange of prisoners and the protection of soldiers on both sides demanded that belligerent rights should be recognized by the United States government. I am obliged to you, Pickett, for precluding the necessity of a flag with your wife, at any rate."

"If you will not think it fulsome, general, I'd like to show you why it was not necessary by telling you some of the things your friend said of you."

"Don't, please," said my soldier, "because Mac has not a fault now, and I do not wish you to mar him with the weakness of vanity."

"I will run the risk," I replied. "He said that you were the most accomplished, most brilliant man in the army, by far the greatest organizer and best disciplinarian, and that you were withal modest, self-reliant—yes, magnificent, and that you had the love and confidence of your whole army."

"Thank you, my dear madam, for voicing the thought of my good old friend, but he is prejudiced. He sees me with the eyes of affection. My superior officers from the command-in-chief down, and even some who were my best friends did not agree with him as to my soldierly qualities."

"I know that, and the only time I ever heard my soldier admit the shadow of a question in regard to the infallibility of Mr. Lincoln's judgment was when there came through the lines a paper with Mr. Lincoln's characteristic telegram in answer to the demand of the state of Pennsylvania for your reinstatement in which he said something to the effect that 'We didn't gain anything by opening one leak to stop another, or silencing one clamor and creating a greater one.'"

"Mr. Lincoln was perfectly right," said Gen. McClellan. "It would not have been wise to risk an open rupture with his cabinet and congress. And as for me, I would rather the other fellow had been opposite Pickett at Gettysburg, anyhow."

"You know, my soldier told me that you and Gen. Lee were so solicitous for the peace and tranquility of your country he believed that if you two could meet and have a pow-wow it would result in a more brotherly settlement of all difficulties."

"What a grand man Lee was," said Gen. McClellan. "Perhaps I could have counselled better than I could fight, and might have safely preserved the line of caution which even my friends censured me for trying to keep too rigidly. Yes, Pickett, my judgment was questioned when I did not move against Manassas in the fall when the weather and the walking were good. And again at Antietam, my lack of proper equipment not being taken into consideration. Others saw only the weather and the walking; they did not see my side. While I was urged on by the president I felt that I, not Mr. Lincoln, was responsible for the fate of my army."

CANNON HOLDS OPTIMISTIC VIEW OF HIS PARTY'S FUTURE

Predicts Success of Republicans in 1916—Declares No Combination is Possible Between Progressives and Republicans.

Chicago, March 18.—The Republican party has not taken the count, according to former Speaker Joseph G. Cannon, who passed through Chicago today on his way to Danville, Ill., where he returns as a private citizen for the first time since 1891.

"I fully expect the Republican party to be back in the saddle four years hence," said the former speaker. "The Republicans and the doors of the party will always be open to those who wish to enter as Republicans with no adjectives attached to their party label."

"I don't care to discuss the question of a coalition between Progressives and Republicans, such a combination would be impossible."

"I'm not out of politics," he continued. "But that does not mean I'll ever run for office again. I'm out of office; but, like the man who got religion, I don't feel any different than I did before."

ROADS ARE IMPROVING.

Charles Patterson, who was in from Ebenezer neighborhood yesterday, said the roads are improving rapidly with the sunshine and strong winds. Between Jacksonville and Ebenezer church the roads have been dragged the greater part of the way and are now in good condition and the same is true with stretches of road in many other parts of the county. It is hardly likely, however, that this condition will continue without change because rains can be expected now from time to time. If the dragging though the spring rains will not bother much and the roads will be in passable shape the greater part of the time.

ATTEMPT TO CAPTURE SCUTARI BEFORE PEACE IS CONCLUDED

Vienna Dispatch Says Bombardment of Town Continues, Catholic Population Have Taken Shelter in Cathedral and That the Town is Burning.

London, March 18.—A Podgoritz despatch says that every effort is being made for the capture of Scutari before peace is concluded. Serbian reinforcements are arriving constantly, and the garrison is believed to be short of ammunition as the return fire during the cannonading has been weak.

A Vienna despatch to the exchange telegraph company says the bombardment of Scutari is proceeding and that the Austrian consulate has been partly destroyed as well as an Italian convent in which one nun was killed. The Catholic population has taken shelter in the cathedral, and the town is burning. This news has caused great excitement in Austrian official circles. According to a Cetinje despatch the Montenegrins have sent an officer under a white flag to inform the Turkish commander of Scutari that the foreign consuls and their people may leave the town.

MILLION DOLLAR BUILDING IS PROPOSED.

Provision For State Educational Structure Made in Bill to be Presented to Illinois Legislature.
A bill appropriating $1,000,000 for the erection of the proposed new state educational building in Springfield is ready for introduction in the legislature as soon as it has been officially approved by the state commission annexed to consider preliminary plans. The building is intended to house the state educational department, the state natural history museum and the state memorial museum.

The site for the building has not been selected as yet, and the plans for the structure have not been completed in detail, although the ground floor has been arranged by former State Architect Zimmerman.

The present commission was appointed for the purpose of reporting on these preliminaries. The commission is composed of the governor, secretary of state, treasurer, superintendent of public instruction, auditor, president of the hospital society and president of the board of trustees of the historical library.

The change in administration has substituted the four democratic state officials for the four Republicans. Since this change in the personnel of the commission, no meeting has been held and the attitude of the new officials is not officially known, for that reason.

The bill as prepared provides that $500,000 shall be appropriated by this legislature for use during the next two years in constructing the building, and the other $500,000 shall be available in two years from next July. It provides for the naming of a commission to decide on plans, location and to carry on the work.

E. M. Christman's sale consisting of horses, milk cows and farm implements will be held Thursday, March 20. Sale commences at 1 o'clock.

A MESSAGE TO WOMEN

Who Are "Just Ready to Drop."

When you are "just ready to drop" when you feel so weak that you can hardly drag yourself about—and because you have not slept well, you get up as tired-out next morning as when you went to bed, you need help.

Miss Lea Dumas writes from Malone, N. Y., saying: "I was in a badly run-down condition for several weeks but two bottles of Vinol put me on my feet again and made me strong and well. Vinol has done me more good than all the other medicine I ever took."

If the careworn, run-down women, the pale, sickly children and feeble old folks around here would follow Miss Dumas' example, they too, would soon be able to say that Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron remedy, had built them up and made them strong.

It is a wonderful, strength creator and body-builder, and we sell it under a guarantee of satisfaction. You get your money back if Vinol does not help you. Lee P. Alcott, Druggist, Jacksonville, Ill.

NOTICE

To Farmers and Stock Raisers

We are now manufacturing under State License, the best Brand of hog food on the market known as "SURE FATTEN HOG FOOD". It is far superior to any Brand of HOG food on the market to day. It is guaranteed under the Pure Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906, Serial No. 47,673. Guaranteed analysis as follows:

Crude Fat, 10.00 to 14 per cent
Crude Protein, 52.50 to 60 per cent
Crude Fibre, 1.00 to 3 per cent
Phosphate, 10.00 to 12 per cent

What Is "Sure Fatten Hog Food"

It is a dark colored granular meal, made from meat residues, and it supplies the protein and phosphates necessary for compounding a balanced ration in most economical and palatable form.

It contains phosphates in proper proportion to insure strength of bone and frame work. In the corn belt bone development is a matter of serious consideration.

It is not a substitute for corn, but a small quantity fed in connection with corn or other grains gives a balanced ration.

It is the most economical source of digestible protein known, containing twice as much protein as oil meal and five times as much as maddings, shorts, shipstuffs, or alfalfa meal.

TANKAGE recommended by all leading experiment stations.

It is packed in one-hundred-pound burlap sack, plainly marked "SURE FATTEN HOG FOOD," analysis as above. It is the ideal feed to balance rations.

What "Sure Fatten Hog Food" Tankage Does.

It develops bone and muscle in young pigs and makes them grow. It matures a hog for market in two and three months quicker than corn alone, thereby, saving one third of the feed bill, one third of the labor, one third of the risk, increasing profits one third.

It grows better proportioned hogs, more meat, a d more fat, hence market-topper hogs. SURE FATTEN HOG FOOD TANKAGE fed hogs ship well with small shrink.

While in nowise a medicine, it so fortifies and strengthens the system against attacks of disease germs that SURE FATTEN HOG FOOD TANKAGE fed hogs are universally healthy hogs.

FACE ALL RED SPOTS AND BLISTERS

Rubbed and Scratched. Would Cry and Fret. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Face Got Well.

632 N. 5th St., Terre Haute, Ind.—"My little nephew, a boy of four years, had a breaking out on his face. It was little red spots at first then he would rub and scratch and water blisters would form and wherever the water would run another would come until his face was covered with them. He would cry and fret. His mother got some medicine, but it did not do any good. He would scream and cry and say it hurt. We hardly knew him. His little face was all red spots and blisters. So I begged him to let me put some Cuticura Ointment on them. The next morning I made a strong soap suds with Cuticura Soap and washed his face in the warm suds. The little blisters burst by pressing the cloth on them. After I had his face washed, I put the Cuticura Ointment on and in a short time his little face was all red and dry. I kept using the Cuticura Soap and putting on the Cuticura Ointment and his face got well and it did not leave a scar. He was entirely cured in about one week and a half." (Signed) Mrs. Arthur Haworth, Jan. 10, 1912.

A single cake of Cuticura Soap and box of Cuticura Ointment are often sufficient when all else has failed. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25c. Sample free.

TELLS HOW GIRL AT GENEVA HOME MET DEATH

Institution Quarterly Gives Dramatic Story of How Runaway Received Shock from Electric Rail.

The last issue of the Institution Quarterly, the organ of the State Charities, contains a report of an investigation which was made into the death of one of the young girls at the State Training School for Girls at Geneva. The story revealed is of the most unusual character. This girl, with two others, had attempted to escape from the institution, not because they were dissatisfied, but in response to a wanderlust that they could not resist. They were living in the honor cottage, where many of the restrictions necessary on other cottages were not enforced.

The State's investigator, in his report says the story contains the material for a book.

After telling of the girls' dash from their cottage, the report continues: "The night was dark and the way unknown. None of them had been over that part of the State. It was all strange to them. They had no object in view. They had planned nothing. The railroad offered them a route, and they decided to follow it to a town."

"The three girls had been walking hand in hand. They huddled together between the two rails and stumbled along over the ties."

"Then Zoe said, 'Here are three rails. Let's walk on them, hand in hand.' One of them stepped upon the third rail. Like a flash she fell and uttered not a sound. She pulled the other girls with her, and the three lay upon the track lifeless."

"Bida came to first, she says, and saw her companions about her. She rolled to one side and pulled Lula with her but Zona remained her body stretched from one rail to the other. Lula came to as she touched the ground freed from the rail. The two girls began to call Zoe, but she made no answer. They touched her, and were thrown to ground, blue flames and sparks darting from their finger tips, burning their flesh and clothes, and adding to the unkindness and terror of the scene."

"They had never heard of the third rail. They knew nothing of electricity. One cannot fathom the perils of the fright that such an experience and scene produced in these two girls."

"They cried and called and again touched the still form, but only the blue flame and sparks; no word or sign of life from the unfortunate girl."

"They were mute in their anguish they said nothing to each other, but instinctively looked about for help. Across the fields there shown a tiny light from a farmer's home. It seemed to these girls a manifestation of Providence, a star set in the skies to lead them to hope."

"They said good-bye to Zoe. They trudged across the fields, leaving her alone in the dark night stretched across the two rails. They aroused the farmer, who took them in. Then lighting his lantern, he started to the tracks."

"What a sight met his eyes. A car had dashed over the little form. The head was mangled and crushed. The limbs were severed, one leg above the knee, one below it; one little hand was far from its mate. The trunk was torn open. The flesh was black from current and the school frock was torn and burned."

"The car had gone on. It was the last trip of the night. The crew had seen a figure on the track, but thought it a dog or a piece of paper. The motorman did not stop or heed it. He felt the jar of the car, but never halted. The crew talked about it, and they said they would stop when they returned and see what they had run over."

"This is the tragedy of the child's life, a child who had never had a chance. The wanderlust had been born in her. She started that night in response to a secret prompting which she could not analyze, which she never thought to question or ask why, which she could not resist because it was so natural and persistent."

"There is not much more to the awful story. The officers came. They had been hunting all night for the runaways; for the telephone had notified all cities and communities within ten miles.

"The fragments were picked up and taken to the undertaker's at Batavia."

Zoe's companions heard of her fate the next morning and returned to the School, but they never saw her face again. She lives in their memory as she was when they bade her good-bye."

"The undertaker prepared the body for its journey to Carverville, in the southern part of the State, where a grandmother almost blind, had been faithful and loyal almost to the last, and was now waiting for the little white coffin and its hidden remains buried under the flowers of the girls of the School had picked from their gardens."

LONDON STANDARD ATTACKS BRYAN'S ST. PATRICK'S DAY SPEECH

Calls it "Fine Example of Virulent and Inflated Nonsense" Used to Catch the Irish Votes—Secretary of State Now in St. Louis.

London, March 18.—Following up the Post's attack on William J. Bryan the American secretary of state for his speech at the St. Patrick's day banquet at Washington on Saturday evening, the Standard says:

"If Mr. Bryan really expresses the views of the cabinet and the president the relations between Great Britain and the United States may enter upon a phase which would be regarded with extreme regret by a majority of the sensible moderate persons of both countries."

The Standard describes Secretary Bryan's speech as "a fine example of virulent and inflated nonsense which the inferior kind of demagogue talks when he wants to catch Irish votes."

The Standard regrets the speech which, it says, it is impossible to pass as a mere indiscretion just as the Panama bill is coming before the house and fears that Irish electioneering machinery will be brought to bear for indiscriminate tells.

Peoria, Ill., March 18.—Secretary of State William J. Bryan, arrived in Peoria tonight at 6:25 and was hurried to a hotel where an informal luncheon was held and left over the C. & Q. for Lincoln, Nebraska at 7:10 p. m. Bryan's train arrived late. The secretary was met at the depot by a small delegation of Democrats. Mr. Bryan did not refer to the Illinois deadlock situation or politics in general during his 45 minutes stay in the city. Governor Dunne accompanied the secretary and his party to Peoria.

THE ATTITUDE OF THE PEOPLE TO THE LAND.

One of the greatest difficulties in the maintenance of fertility, or its restoration, is the lack of a proper attitude of the people to the land. If the farmer has bought a farm, intending it for a home (there is a difference between a farm and a home) and expects to hand it down as a legacy to his children after it has been a refuge and shelter to him in old age, he desires to maintain and increase the fertility of the land. He regards himself and the land as partners. He knows that if he will do his part toward the land, it will do its part toward him. Good land never goes back on the good farmer, and inferior land always does better for him than he expects.

When a man buys a farm as a speculation, or as a temporary investment, his attitude to it is entirely different. He wants to get all out of the land that he can. If he rents it, the attitude of the renter is precisely that of the landlord. Neither of them take into account the predominant partner, that is, the land itself. The attitude of the owner and cultivator toward the farmer is a vital and important thing. If we are ever to maintain the fertility of our soil, or to increase it to any extent, this attitude must be changed. The land must be taken into account.

The reason why English lands retain their fertility while those in the United States, speaking generally, are losing it and have been for more than a hundred years, is because the attitude of the landlord and tenant over there is entirely different from what it is in this country. The laws of England make it to the interest of landlord and tenant alike to maintain soil fertility; and it is maintained.

When a man's present interest and his duty pull in the same direction good will be accomplished. When his present interest and his duty pull in opposite directions, the interest of both landlord and tenant to reduce the soil fertility, it will be reduced. When our states adopt legislation that will make interest and duty one we shall hear no more complaint about the soils of America losing their fertility. The important thing is the mental attitude of the owners and cultivators toward the land itself. From Wallace Farmer, Des Moines, Iowa.

RAILROAD NOTES.

Baggage in excess of forty-five inches in any dimension, except widths as applied to "cases" may be charged for at excess rates by railroads, according to a decision by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and if it measures more than seventy-two inches the carriers may refuse to accept it all. The charge may not exceed the charge for five pounds of excess baggage for each inch over forty-five inches. Widths in cases may run to ninety inches in length and twelve inches in diameter. After a year's notice a railroad may refuse trunks with more than two bulging sides or with two such sides not opposite each other.

The Wabash railroad management has arranged for traffic conferences at Detroit on March 19, 20 and 21. The first day will be devoted to a conference with the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western people, and the third day to a conference with the Lehigh Valley people. Traffic representatives from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast—some 125 in number—will be in attendance. The last two meetings of this character were held in St. Louis. The meeting has been arranged at Detroit this time in order to get larger representation from the Eastern railroads.

The general offices of the Alton in Chicago are to be transferred next week to the new transportation building, two entire floors having been rented. The work of removal will commence next Saturday and will require about one week to complete. The attaches of the office are happy over the prospects of securing new quarters. At the present time the offices are scattered among three buildings. Under the new arrangement they will be consolidated, promoting convenience. The claim department will be removed to Bloomington as soon as the new depot is completed there.

AUCTION SALE OF TOWN LOTS!

On the Premises, Jacksonville, Ill.

Tuesday, March 25, at 2 P.M.

RAIN OR SHINE.

We have Purchased what we think the Best Piece of Land in Jacksonville for City Lots, namely,

The Old Morrison Property

ON GROVE STREET, and have a crew of men beautifying and platting this property into town lots, with streets and alleys, and on Tuesday, March 25th, at 2 p. m., we will sell these nice lots at public auction to the highest bidder, regardless of what they bring, on easy terms. No by-bidding. NOW LISTEN: When we say we are going to sell these lots at auction WE MEAN what we say. We will sell every lot put up, lose or win; that is our business. We are town lot men, and believe we know good stuff when we see it, and if this is not good stuff we are fooled one time.

You know that high class real estate is the best investment on earth; you know these are high class lots; know lots like these are scarce and high in Jacksonville; you know that lots sell cheap at auction; you know that a town that has grown to the importance that this town has, with her fine farming country, strong banks and business houses, cultured people, fine churches, good schools, to back her up; there is only one way for lots to go, and that way is higher and higher. So attend this sale. Buy a few of these lots and watch your money grow. This the last chance at these lots without paying a handsome profit, so get busy on day of sale.

$10.00 IN GOLD FOR A NAME!

We will give the two ladies sending in the best name for this new addition $5 each in gold, provided you are on the grounds the day of sale. All names must be sent to Walton Brothers at Pacific Hotel by Saturday, March 22th.

$50 IN GOLD GIVEN AWAY. In order to show our appreciation of your presence on the grounds we are going to give away free $50 in gold. You don't have to bid to get this gold, but you must be on the ground the day of sale. Brass band to entertain you. Come out and hear the noted auctioneers, Col. Igleheart of Kentucky, and Col. Reppert of Indiana. Come out and let's have one big afternoon. Your neighbor will be there.

A STRONG REFERENCE.
A young man recently applied for a position with a large printing house, and not having a letter of showed a regularity of entries of de-

STOCK LIST UNDER PRESSURE AT CLOSE

SELLING IN UNION PACIFIC, READING, STEEL AND AMAL-GAMATED HEAVIEST.

Movement of Important Speculative Issues Confined to Fractions Until Last Half Hour—Net Losses on Day Small.

(By Associated Press)

New York, March 18.—Until the last half hour of trading today movements of the important speculative issues were confined to fractions and much of the time the market was nearly at a standstill. The list was under pressure in the closing trading with selling heaviest in Union Pacific, Reading, Steel and Amalgamated.

Net losses on the day were small in most cases. Union Pacific sold down to 146½, a new low figure.

Liquidation of New Haven and some of the specialties continued.
New Haven dropped to 113½, a new low point.

Among the industrials, Rumely fell 7½ and Goodrich and California petroleum sold at new low figures for the decline. The general list was not affected, however, until the final drive was made.

The approach of the Easter holidays, international money conditions, uncertainties regarding the Harriman dissolution proceedings and tariff legislation all tended to reduce speculative operations. The late selling may have been influenced by cables from abroad, telling of the assassination of the king of Greece and the resignation of the French cabinet. Another bearish factor was announced of the engagement of $4,000,000 more gold for France, making a total of $23,000,000 to that country this year. In spite of these additional engagements the money market here was slightly easier. No decided relaxation in rates is looked for, however, at this time.

DR. HAYDEN SPEAKS AT PUBLIC LIBRARY

Tells of the "Wise Guy" of His Times, Dr. Samuel Johnson.

A good sized audience gathered at the public library Tuesday evening to hear Dr. Hayden talk on "A Wise Guy," whom they were soon informed was no less a person than Dr. Samuel Johnson. Taking the definition found in the Century Dictionary of a "guy" as an eccentric person, Dr. Hayden applied it to this great English author, portraying his personal idiosyncrasies and showing the basis of his claims to wisdom.

Dr. Johnson when a baby was so marked by the deadly scrofula and so homely in appearance that an aunt of his declared that he wasn't worth picking up. The character and ability he developed later, however, showed that he was decidedly worth saving, that it was greatly to the advantage of the world that he lived as long as he did. Diseased from birth, Samuel Johnson was additionally handicapped by poverty and uncouth manners when he set out as a youth to go to college. He lived at Oxford, no one knew how. He was too proud to accept help. He was handicapped too by his irregular habits and intense hostility to the college authorities, although he was widely read and a precocious classical scholar. Before he finished Oxford, his father died and Samuel set out to make his fortune. He went to London where he became acquainted with the principal literary figures of the time, among whom he soon took a leading place.

Reasons for Greatness.
The reason for the high place in literature held by Dr. Samuel Johnson may not at first be apparent. Certainly it was not on account of his personality, which was eccentric to repulsiveness. Large and corpulent with deformed face and blinking eye from the effects of the scrofula which even the "king's touch" could not heal his was not a figure to be welcomed in polite society. Nor was he helped by his strange fits of absent mindedness nor by his voracious appetite. His esteem does not depend upon his poetry, which is not now read by lovers of true poetry, nor upon his literary essays with their ponderous "Johnsonese" style and their threadbare platitudes. He was a man of strong opinions which he expressed in an original way with entire fearlessness, a quality of mind, which with his wide knowledge, made him by right almost, the literary dictator of his time.

One of his best known works was the dictionary, a very able compilation, despite the prejudice with which some definitions were given, as for instance "oats" which in view of hatred for the Scotch, caused him to define "it" as a "grain which in England is generally given to horses but in Scotland is the main support of the people."

Despite his rough appearance Dr. Johnson had one of the kindest of hearts. Very touching is the high regard with which he held his mother. His kindness to persons in need and to the old servants of the family is well known. He was extremely pious. With his kind heart, his wide learning, his ability to think clearly and his forceful opinions make him in truth worthy to be called "A Wise Guy."

BAHN MUST ANSWER KIDNAPPING CHARGE

JACKSONVILLE MAN ARRESTED ON TRAIN AT SLATER, MO.

Left Here Tuesday Morning Taking With Him Five Year Old Leonard Wade—Had Ticket For California—Arrest Was Made at Request of Lad's Mother.

A man appeared at the Chicago & Alton ticket office Tuesday morning a short time before the 9:40 train was due. He showed that he was nervous and kept looking about him as if he feared someone might be watching. The man asked for a ticket to California and when it was ready signed with trembling hand the name of John Bahn. An attractive boy of five years was with him and the two boarded the train which came about half an hour late. A few hours afterward, Chief of Police Davis sent a telegraphic message to Slater, Mo., asking that Bahn be arrested there on a charge of kidnapping. When the train pulled in to Slater a policeman entered the car and took Bahn and his little companion in charge and Chief of Police Davis left last night for Slater to bring them back. Bahn who has been employed at the Illinois Steel Bridge Co., works has been a boarder at the home of Mrs. Mary Wade, 503 East North street. The lad who accompanied him is Mrs. Wade's son Leonard, and it was she who asked for the arrest of Bahn.

Long Boarded With Family.
The story is that Bahn has long been a friend of the Wade family and has boarded in the home for the past thirteen years. The family came here from Winchester about eighteen months since and prior to that time lived in Missouri. Mr. and Mrs. Wade have been separated for the past three years and the husband is now living in White Hall. It seems that for a month or more that Mrs. Wade has wished Bahn to leave but as he had so long boarded with the family he objected to going. Recently when it was suggested to him that he had better find another boarding place he replied that if he went Mrs. Bahn would be "sorry a thousand times." Nothing special however was thought of the remark until yesterday when it was found that the man and the boy were missing.

About 8:30 o'clock Tuesday a. m., accompanied by the boy, Bahn went to an up-town butcher shop to buy some meat. While there he telephoned and asked Mrs. Wade of there was anything else she wanted purchased. Two hours later when he had not returned, Mrs. Wade became alarmed and reported the matter to the police department. It was soon established that Bahn and the boy had gone on the 9:40 Alton train as Mr. Connelley of the Alton office remembered the man well and had seen him sign his name on the ticket. Often this is not required but Bahn was so noticeably nervous that the signature was asked for. Owing to an accident which befell Bahn some years ago he has but one eye and Leonard Wade, the five year old boy with him has red hair and therefore the two were easily identified when the Slater officers went through the train looking for them.

May Have Had Double Motive.
Bahn, it is said is fond of the boy and often had him with him and it is likely that he had no trouble in getting his little companion to consent to the trip on the train. Members of the Wade family believe that he planned the abduction because of grudge and for the added reason of his liking for the boy.

Under laws of Illinois a person convicted of abduction or kidnapping can be sent to the penitentiary for a long term and in a number of states it is a crime, punishable by death.

TO ABANDON FEE SYSTEM.

Feeding of prisoners by the sheriff is a system slated for abolishment in Sangamon county, according to a statement made to the Springfield News by Herman Staab, member of the jail committee of the board of supervisors. While no definite agreement has been reached in the committee on the proposition to build a joint city and county work house, Staab said, it has been decided positively that when a new jail is built the county will assume the problem of boarding prisoners itself.

"The committee has only praise for Sheriff Mester," Staab said, "but the fee system of feeding prisoners is wrong. The board of supervisors is to be criticised for permitting the system to remain in effect for so long. It is uneconomical and ineffective. Sheriff Mester has run the system well but that isn't any guarantee it will never be abused by future sheriffs."

MRS. JOHN A. MORROW IN CRITICAL CONDITION.

Mrs. John A. Morrow of 338 East College avenue, who has been suffering for some time with a cancer was given up to die Tuesday by her attending physicians. Realizing that only a short time was left for life, she summoned her pastor, Rev. Hy S. Alkire to the home in order that he might christen their little girl, after which she gave some directions for the funeral. She had a desire to pass away among her loved ones in Missouri and accompanied by her husband they left for her old home at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning. The family has been residents of Jacksonville since last October and their many friends in the city will sympathize with them in their distress.

Mr. and Mrs. William Stice and son Berry, left last night for Santa Ana, California where they will make their home. Mrs. M. E. Jackson of Mattoon and Mrs. John Votmeier of Franklin, who have been guests at the Stice residence have returned home.

AT SOCIALIST HALL.

John W. Slaytor Told Audience Some of the Things His Party Is Seeking.

The fourth speaker in the course of lectures given by socialists in Conservatory hall was John W. Slaytor of Pittsburg and he was heard by a large audience. His theme was "What Socialists Want." Among the things mentioned as desirable by the speaker were:

"Equal pay for equal service regardless of sex.

"Total abolition of child labor.

"Pensions for the old soldiers of labor as well as those of war.

"We will refuse to allow the police power of the nation to be used against labor in its struggle with the owners of our bread in its effort to improve its conditions."

"We will make all possible improvements in our school system including where necessary free transportation of children as well free dinner. But these remedial measures," he continues "are but the prelude to the inauguration of Socialism, which means the social ownership of all the means of production and distribution and democratic management of the same, to the end that wealth producers shall receive the full social equivalent of all service rendered.

Public productive property he described as being "all that kind of property that is used socially. Draw the line of demarcation between the hat and the hat factory, the suit of clothes and the clothing factory, at the yard gate or the front door, and the subject will begin to clear up."

"We are doing many things now from a public standpoint. If we can make powder, why not flour? If bullets, why not picks and shovels? If we can train men to make and use things to kill men why not train men to make and use things to save men? If we can build the Panama canal, what industry can't we carry on publicly. All, or nearly all, the things we are now doing publicly and paying for from public funds, are done on behalf of and for the benefit of a few of us."

"We want to do all public things for all of us."

"The line between what we may now publicly own is drawn by the capitalists at the point or on that kind of property at which or where profits can be made, and all but the Socialists accept it. We may own the sewers under the streets, but not the street cars on top of them. Why? Because the capitalists have as yet not learned how to make profits out of the sewers."

"Is it possible that we can hire 750,000 people to handle our mail, register our letters, but cannot hire 30,000 to handle railroad tickets? We want the earth to belong to all the people on it, not to a few of them only."

TO ERECT NEW BUILDING.

A. W. Becker, who recently sold his implement establishment expects to erect a building on the vacant lot north of his former place of business, where he will conduct a general blacksmith shop, a trade with which he is quite familiar. He will have competent helpers in his employ. The new building will be 40 by 60 feet and modernly equipped.

The Fatal Germ and Its Remedy Now Facts of Science.

It is the rarest thing in the world for a man to be necessarily bald. No man whose hair is not dead at the roots, need be bald if he will use Newbro's Herpicide, the new scalp antiseptic. Herpicide destroys the germ that cuts the hair off at the root; and cleans the scalp of dandruff and leaves it in a perfectly healthy condition. Mr. Mannett, in the Maryland Block, Butte, Mont., was entirely bald. In less than a month Herpicide had removed the enemies of hair growth, and nature did its work by covering his head with thick hair an inch long, and it six weeks he had a normal suit of hair. It is self-oiling and is as nearly mechanically perfect as a machine can be made.

meants in question by senate and the Taft administration closed without demonstrating how far the American government should go in protecting its financial firms abroad. In Santo Domingo a somewhat similar process is in actual operation but it will continue to exist by virtue of the treaty between this country and the Dominican republic ratified during the Roosevelt administration. Here the United States appointed a receiver general of customs to collect the duties which constituted the guarantee for the payment of the Dominican republic of its foreign debt.

The withdrawal to day of the aid of this government to what has been popularly known as the "six power loan" brings to an end so far as can be forecast at present, the diplomatic activity of the United States in that connection. While to day's statement means the end of governmental support to the loan projects as at present advanced, it is pointed out in official circles here, that American banking firms can still share a part of the loan independently and without the guarantees of support from this government.

SUGGESTS CELEBRATION IN HONOR OF STEPHEN DOUGLAS

E. W. Baker Writes Journal That Such Event in Community Would Be Appropriate and Enthusiastically Received.

Barry, Ill., March 18, 1913.
Editor Jacksonville Journal:
Dear Sir: You may not be aware that in the October number the Journal Illinois Historical Society, there is an autobiography of Stephen A. Douglas, which comes down to September, 1838, when he was 25 years old and four years and a half after he came to Jacksonville, 1834. I think there ought to be a celebration at Winchester of the 80th anniversary of the starting of the first and only school taught for three months by Douglas in 1833-34. I think it would have been well if Woodrow had spent no more time at school teaching than did Douglas. Could the celebration be held now, Winchester township would hardly hold the crowd of large and hungry Democrats, anxiously awaiting the distribution of the loaves and fishes and enthusiastically honoring the all but forgotten memory of the "Little Giant."

It has been suggested to me that so good an opportunity should not be wasted but that the thing to do is to celebrate the 100 anniversary of his birthday, April 23, 1913.

E. W. Baker.

SHOULD BE PREPARED FOR ALL EMERGENCIES

Washington, March 18.—In an official statement of policy to day Secretary of War Garrison declared in favor of immediate preparation of the military forces of the United States to meet any emergency, holding a discussion of disarmament by international agreement to be entirely out of place in the consideration of what the United States should do to meet existing conditions. The secretary proposed retention of the regular army at its present strength improvement of the national guard and creation of a reserve.

Regarding the reserve the secretary suggested that this best could be created without bringing into existence a large professional soldiery, by shortening the present four year enlistment term to two years, so as to train more men in short periods, and turn them back into civil life, immediately available in case of need.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

Julesburg, Colo., March 18.—Jerma Atkins of Huntington, W. Va., to day shot and killed S. G. Stevenson and then committed suicide. The trouble between the two is said to have originated over Stevenson's admonitions to Miss Bessie Hileman to whom Atkins had become attached, that Atkins was not the proper person for her to marry.

LEWIS DROPS SIX VOTES ON ELEVENTH BALLOT

in the size of the thing created. When God created men, he did not make the tallest man much taller than the shortest man and did not make the strongest man much stronger than the weakest, but when man made the corporation, the corporate man that corporate man was made a hundred, a thousand and a million times stronger than the God-made man. Therefore, the God-made man has a right to insist that as the government created this giant the government shall control this giant and not permit it to trespass upon the right of individual. It must be understood therefore that a corporation has no natural rights. It has no rights except those given it by the government and as the corporation has rights that the natural man does not enjoy, if you insist that it also has every right that the natural man enjoys, you make it necessarily more potent than the natural man can be.

"I ask you, therefore, to be careful and don't permit a corporation to be created without providing a means for restraining it and regulating it."

"And as the people create corporations through government I suggest that you require by law that every corporation shall put up as a motto in its chief offices of business 'Remember Now Thy Creator.'"

Only Three States Needed.
Members of the legislature are seriously discussing tonight the possibility of what will happen in the senatorial deadlock when three more states ratify the constitutional amendment for the direct election of United States senators.

Republican leaders who have given thought to them after say that the power of the Illinois legislature to elect a senator for either the long or short term senatorship will be gone on that day that the 36th state approves the amendment. This amendment directs that the state legislature shall provide the means for electing senators by direct vote. In Illinois where a senatorial primacy already is in effect it will only require an amendment to the election laws, adding the office of United States senator before it will be up to Governor Dunne to call a special primary election in the event that the deadlock is not broken before the amendment is ratified by the necessary number of states. Only three more are now needed.

Mr. Woods has carried out the wish of Mr. Devlin.
Mr. Lyons arrived to day to assume the duties. For several years he was night superintendent of the Ward-Corby Baking company of Chicago.

NEW ALTON CARD WILL NOT EFFECT JACKSONVILLE

While Secretary Fritchey was in Springfield Tuesday he had a conference with George J. Charlton, general traffic manager of the Alton. He stated that if the early Alton train from Chicago was taken off, as was now proposed in the new schedule that the change would not effect Jacksonville. The company expected to have a substitute train which would give Jacksonville a service out of Chicago as fast as the one now maintained. Mr. Charlton also said that any of day trains would be provided with chair cars and some with Pullman accommodations.

MISS CELIA CATHCART TO BE QUEEN OF THE MAY

Receives Highest Number of Votes at Election Held at Illinois Woman's College Yesterday.

Miss Celia Cathcart will be Queen of the May at the annual fete to be held this spring at the Woman's college. There was some strong competition for the honors at the election held Tuesday morning. Miss Mona Summers being only five votes behind the winner. Other candidates were Miss Hallie Clem and Miss Elizabeth Tendick.

Not only beauty but popularity formed the basis for making the selection and the college has a number of students who could well qualify. As a rule the young ladies try to settle before hand upon some certain candidate so that the votes will not be scattered too much. Miss Cathcart is from Sidell, Ill., and is a sophomore in the school. She is a member of Phi Nu Literary society.

The May day fete in the past has been one of the important festivities of the college calendar and the school intends to add new features this year and make the day more eventful than ever.
